Items may generally be returned for a refund in the following situations:

- a. within 14 days of receipt, for any reason;
- b. at any time, if found not to be genuine.

In either case the customer is responsible for arranging return shipping, including all customs formalities, and for the cost of return shipping. In the case of a dispute as to whether an item so returned is genuine, the opinion of a mutually agreed expert is to be binding.

Please note that a refund under clause 3(a) above is usually only possible for retail customers who have not had the opportunity to inspect the item in person.

Furthermore, especially for customers resident in jurisdictions with restrictive laws regarding the export of antiquities (e.g. Greece, Italy), the return of some items under clause 3(a) may not be possible, or may require obtaining export licenses (which may be the responsibility of the customer).

Full refunds are generally not possible if:

- a. an item is returned to us due to failure to pay customs fees or fulfill other import customs requirements;
- b. an item is returned damaged (unless it was damaged in transit).

However, a partial refund may be available at our discretion.

If an item is found to be materially not as described more than 14 days after receipt, a full refund on return may be possible at our discretion.

Return of items by third parties is not usually possible.
